INTRODUCTION.

Iowa Conference Seminary was opened November 14, 1853, and in 1857, under a new charter, the rank and name of the institution was changed to that of Cornell College. The founders were liberal, farseeing men, who, having been attracted hither by the richness of the soil and the enrapturing beauty of the scenery, began thus early to lay the foundations of a college that should help to mould the literary, social and religious elements of the new commonwealth of Iowa.

The leader in the good cause was the late Rev. Geo. B. Bowman, D. D., who had a keen appreciation of the benefits of higher education and untiring faith and energy in securing them. He drew around him a loyal band of kindred spirits who formed the first Board of Trustees of the college in 1857, only one of whom, Hon. Hiram Price, of Washington, D. C., remains to rejoice in the growth and fruitage of this goodly tree of their planting. Since the publication of the last Quinquennial, two members of this first Board of Trustees have gone to their reward, Mr. Henry D. Albright and Hon. E. D. Waln.

The most important means for achieving the high ends of a true college is a capable, loyal and inspiring Faculty. Cornell has been peculiarly fortunate in its teachers. They have loved their work and have carried it on with scholarly enthusiasm. They have learned how to sacrifice and to wait for their reward in the renewed and radiant lives of their students. The present Faculty consists of thirty professors and teachers, who in the preparation for their specialties, represent many of the leading colleges and universities of this country, while a number of them have had the advantage of study in Europe. The relations between the Faculty and Trustees have been reciprocally pleasant, as shown by the fact that the average length of service of all the regular professors now in the literary department is seventeen and three-fourths years. And we record with heartfelt thankfulness the kind Providence that has preserved the Faculty so free from death all these years. Death has invaded the ranks of its active members but once in thirty-four years. Miss Jennie L. Fitch who had just entered upon her work as Art Teacher, was called away Dec. 26, 1895.

The college approaches its fortieth anniversary with large resources and an honorable record betokening still greater usefulness. It is befitting at this time to publish a brief quinquennial register of her officers and her Alumni. Though the record in all cases is necessarily brief, and in some meagre for lack of information, yet it will present an interesting and valuable collection of information for which we are in debt to our painstaking compiler, Prof. Alonzo Collin.

There are 657 regular Alumni of the college of whom 458, or 70 per cent., are men, and 199, or 30 per cent., are women. Of the whole body 51, or 7.7 per cent., are deceased, 27 of whom were men and 24 were women. Of the men 5.9 per. cent are deceased and of the women 12.1 per cent.

Of the 47 graduates of the 1st decade six died during that decade (12.76 per cent).

Of the 126 graduates of the 2d decade three died during that decade (2.4 per cent).

Of the 172 graduates of the 3d decade two died during that decade (1.15 per cent).

Of the 312 graduates of the 4th decade seven died during that decade (2.24 per cent).

We are thankful for the large number of our Alumni who have become famous, but we must not confine our estimate of the college to their conspicuous record, for equally worthy and honorable are those who have done well their part in any of the less conspicuous fields of usefulness. Many of the achievements in the higher ministries of home, church and society can not be presented in these statistics. And let it further be remembered that no record of the usefulness of the college can be complete which does not contain the work achieved by the large body of under graduates who have been compelled to leave the college without diplomas, but who have rendered service alike honorable to themselves and to the college.

It is a great source of gratification that the college should be able in the first forty years of its existence to send out 657 graduates and about 10,000 undergraduates with their lives so touched by the nobler influences of christian culture as to enrich every department of life. With such fruitage in the past, there is no doubt as to the future.
